

Special Operators

Nov 22, 2019 14:26

Supported Clients

SmartClient WebClient NGClient MobileClient

Methods Summary

void      `typeof()`      Returns the type of the given object, one of these strings get returned: "number", "string", "boolean", "object", "function" or undefined if the object doesn't exists.

Methods Details

`typeof()`

Returns the type of the given object, one of these strings get returned: "number", "string", "boolean", "object", "function" or undefined if the object doesn't exists.

Supported Clients

SmartClient,WebClient,NGClient,MobileClient

Sample

```
application.output(typeof "abc"); // string application.output(typeof 10); // number
application.output(typeof 10.1); // number application.output(typeof true); // boolean application.output(typeof parseInt); // function application.output(typeof application); // object application.output(typeof somethingInexisting); // undefined
```